

navAero Inc. Moves to New Facilities in Downtown Chicago

September 12 , 2005

Chicago, IL USA - navAero Inc., manufacturers of the navAero t-Bag C2<sup>2</sup> Electronic Flight Bag (EFB), has moved its US Headquarters operation to new facilities. The company has just completed renovation of a historical building in downtown Chicago that will provide for a facility custom-built to meet its needs.

“With more than 8,000 square feet of space, we will have dedicated areas for sales, marketing, customer technical support, production, conformance inspection and testing. This new facility will provide us with ample space for our immediate requirements and will also give us space for future growth,” said Dean K. Matt, COO, navAero Inc. “And, as an additional service to our aviation customers, with this new space, we plan to be an approved PMA facility in early 2006”.

navAero, Inc. is one of the world leaders in developing and commercializing cost effective electronic flight bag (EFB) products for commercial and general aviation. For further information visit the navAero website at www.navaero.com.
