navAero announces Saab Deputy CEO and Business Group Chairman, Ingemar Andersson, as Chairman of navAero

June 1, 2007 Chicago, IL USA — Ingemar Andersson, current Executive Vice President, Deputy CEO and Business Group Chairman of Saab Group, is being appointed Chairman of the Board of navAero. With more than 25 years experience at Saab, Mr. Andersson brings navAero his business expertise, network and wisdom to guide and direct the on-going and future business of the company.

For more than 60 years, Saab has been developing and producing leading-edge aviation products and aircrafts that are globally recognized for innovation. The extensive experience of Mr. Andersson in nurturing the growth of emerging technologies to meet the demanding requirements of the aerospace industry is one of the key determining factors that makes him the right person to chair navAero and direct the company to realizing its next level as a multi-dimensional supplier to the aviation marketplace.

Through navAero's working relationship with Saab and its Aerotech business unit, extensive experience has been gained by navAero to meet the demanding requirements of the aerospace industry. From design and development of systems, subsystems and systems integration for companies like Airbus and Boeing, the Saab Aerotech organization is providing world-leading abilities that are helping navAero meet the ever changing needs of the aviation industry. And with Saab Aerotech's status with EASA as a DOA (Design Organizational Approval), Saab provides a channel for navAero to achieve rapid certification for related aircraft products and parts.

"Mr. Andersson's experience at Saab in the commercialization of a broad range of cost-effective products and services to commercial and defense aviation sectors gives him the knowledge, insight and professional network to drive navAero to its goal of providing total solutions that meet the expectations of the aviation marketplace" said Stefan Ridderheim, CEO of navAero Ab.
